

Environmental and safety policy

We have a responsibility to our customers, employees, the people of the community, and the environment. Our environmental protection and safety measures, which result from our commitment to sustainable management, are outlined in the following guidelines. Our task is to bring these guidelines to life and implement them in the workplace. In doing so, we take into account legal regulations, official requirements, and directives and standards for environmental protection as well as occupational health and safety.

- We strive for economic efficiency and long-term economic success. As a company, we are committed to conserving resources and safeguarding our environment.
- Developing high-quality products that prioritize safety and environmental sustainability is a key focus of our work. This involves implementing systems to enhance machine safety and ergonomics, utilizing technology with low consumption and emissions, and designing products with recycling in mind from the start.
- We monitor, evaluate, and document the impact of our activities on both people and the environment. To this end, we regularly work to optimize our processes.
- We prioritize the safe and environmentally friendly handling of hazardous materials. Where possible, we replace such materials with alternatives that are better for both people and the environment.
- Ensuring safety and protection of the environment is a core focus of our employee training and continuing education programs. We encourage our employees to engage in healthy and environmentally friendly conduct both inside and outside the company.
- We actively inform our customers about the safety and environmental considerations related to our products throughout their lifecycle, including production, handling, use, repair, and disposal.
- We have high expectations for our suppliers and contractual partners, requiring them to comply with environmental and safety regulations and collaborate on finding solutions together with us.
- We use an integrated management system, and our management regularly reviews its performance. The goal is to continuously improve our company processes in terms of protection of the environment, safety, and health, as well as quality.
- We engage in open dialog with our employees, neighbors, authorities, customers, and interested members of the public. We actively share information about our environmental and health protection services. Our environmental and safety policy extends to all current and future enterprises under the umbrella of Loesch Verpackungstechnik GmbH + Co KG.
